Hi Branson. I got message from your mom. She is sick and she is sorry she can't take you to school today. So be good to her today. Try and do something nice for her and she will love that. Anything you do will helps her to feel better. I know your are a good guy she takes good care of you. And we all need to take care of each other. I love you and we are all so proud of you I wii pray she gets to feel better soon and I pray for you every day that you're doing great. I will say extra prayer's especially today.

That's what is special about families we love each other.
